SUMMARY OF STATE NEWS.

ROME.—The interest in the prayer meetings progressing at the Baptist Church still continues. Eight members were added to the church last Sunday.——The heavy rains of Sunday and Monday have done much damage to crops and railroads in this section. The Selma, Rome and Dalton Railroad had some five hundred yards of the track washed off the road bed near Prior's station. Six trossels were damaged on the lower end of the road, and some of the bents washed away.——The residence occupied by Mrs. White on Church street was struck by lightning Monday. In one room of the house the mantle-piece was drawn from its fastenings and split open. The chimney which the lightning ran down was swept as clean of soot as if sweep with his broom had been down it. Nobody was hurt.——A new base ball club has been organized in Rome, and named in honor of the "Commercial." They have challenged the Fleet-foot Club of Cave Spring.—Commercial.

John Dayton Creswell of Bartow county was murdered last Saturday night in his room, rarely by a Swede named Conrad. Creswell had employed him to clean out his well, agreeing to pay him $5. He paid him $2 50 on the completion of the work. Last Saturday night Conrad came to Creswell's house, and demanded the balance, which Creswell refused to pay him, until the well had been tested. About 8 o'clock Mr. Creswell was found by a negro lying dead in the yard. His skull had been fractured by a heavy rock, and he had been stabbed to the heart. His wife was Miss Fannie Pearson, a most estimable lady of Rome. Conrad has not yet been arrested.—Courier.

SAVANNAH.—Warm weather intensifies the matrimonial fever in Savannah. There were thirty-seven marriage licenses issued during June.—Advertiser and Republican.

AUGUSTA.—Several darkies who were preparing for a descent into the cotton warehouse of Messrs. Dunbar & Sibley were raided by the police Sunday night. Unfortunately none of them were caught.——A colored dog-lifter snatched a pet puppy out of a negro woman's arms on Monday afternoon, and struck out for the pound. The enraged Amazon gathered up her skirts and followed. That boy has had two doctors sticking plasters to him for two days, and the job is not finished yet.——Another buggy smashing enlivened Broad street Monday evening. The inevitable small boy was in the buggy, and described a graceful circular curve of some fifteen feet. He destroyed a couple of sign boards and a pair of jean pants, and landed on the sidewalk a little demoralized but still smiling.——The Augusta Boat Club are building a splendid club house.——A crowd of Fifteenth Amendments from Augusta made a descent upon Aiken last Sunday. The people have temporarily suspended using chickens and eggs.——Hon. H. Clay Foster struck his foot against a gas drip on Saturday afternoon, and fell, breaking his right arm at the wrist.——A called meeting of the Christian Church was held last Sunday, Judge James S. Hook in the chair. Resolutions were passed accepting with deep regret the resignation of Rev. James S. Lamar as pastor of the church, and paying a high compliment to his ability and fidelity as a minister.—Chronicle and Sentinel.

MACON.—The Pike murder case has been set for trial on the 9th of July. Pike is still in jail.——Morse, a colored man employed on a farm near McCall's mill, while cleaning up a piece of swampy land Monday morning was bitten in the hand by a copper-bellied moccasin. Remedies were applied immediately, but at last accounts, his arm was badly swollen to the shoulder, and he was suffering great pain.——George Birdsong, a celebrated lifter of other people's pocket books, was jailed in Macon on Monday. George came to grief through practicing his art on a Columbus nigger last Sunday.——Lou Shields, the wielder of the flat-iron which put a ten year old child to death last Friday night, is in jail for murder.—Telegraph and Messenger.

Nobody, however, stayed to see him very long.——Dalton is stretching out for a cotton factory.——The Western and Atlantic Railroad is about to complete their depot at Ringgold.——Extensive preparations are being made for the approaching agricultural fair in September.——Dalton is yearning after a Library Association.——The taxable property of Dalton for this year amounts to $808,000, an increase over last year of $156,000.—Enterprise.

COLUMBUS.—Columbus furnishes a splendid field for a temperance crusade. There are forty-three bar rooms in the city. Seven first-class and thirty-six second-class. It is reported that as much liquor, if not more, is given away in stores to customers than is sold in the saloons.——Ten carloads of darkies from Macon excurted to Columbus last Sunday.——The County Commissioners have appointed Mr. John A. Johnson jailor in the place of R. A. Wood resigned.——Another cutting match enlivened Girard last Sunday afternoon. A good deal of bad blood was spilt, but unfortunately for the future good order of the community, nobody was killed.—Enquirer.

DR. CALHOUN'S LIVER PILLS.

I AM engaged in the manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last 35 years, and has taken precedence over all other Family preparations by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supercede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 20 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incidental to this climate. With but few exceptions they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from druggists, merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILIOUSNESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yield readily to this preparation.

For sale by all druggists.

Price 50 cents a box.

A MEETING of the Democratic party of the county of Fulton is called to assemble at the City Hall, at 12 o'clock M. on Saturday the 11th day of July, 1874, for the purpose of organizing the party in view of the approaching fall campaign. All Democrats in the city and county are requested to be present, as business of vital importance will come before the meeting. MANY DEMOCRATS.

JOSEPH PALMER has resigned the Captaincy of the "Southern Rights Guards," of Perry, Georgia.

FREQUENT applications are made to lease convicts, we learn; but all convicts, both those now in the Penitentiary and those who may hereafter be sentenced have been leased for terms varying from twenty-one months to five years.

GOOD reports generally are received from the convict camps by the principal keeper of the penitentiary. The health especially, of the convicts this year is better than usual. The new lessees are making marked improvement in their methods.

THE editor of the Mobile Register is just now the recipient of many congratulations, but he considers the following lines from an old Western friend as about the best: "I am glad to see that your political disabilities are removed, and that you are now as good as a 'nig.'"

IN the next Congress Mississippi will be "represented" in the Senate by a black Bruce. Luckily for his senatorial aspirations, he is a bachelor. For it was a conspiracy of Senatorial wives who would'nt associate with Mrs. Pinchback, although their husbands passed the civil rights bill by a heavy majority, that brought the molasses-hued statesman of Louisiana to grief. Bruce will not look for a dusky mate, if he is wise.

DR. ELY MCCLELLAN, of the United States army, has returned from a tour through all the States visited by the cholera in the epidemic of 1873. He was detailed to investigate its course, causes, etc. The work is yet very incomplete, but enough is ascertained to show that after its appearance in New Orleans, on the 9th day of February, it gradually traveled northward, without any great jumps, generally following the rivers or lines of railroad. The investigation shows that the construction hands upon new lines of railroad were among the most active agents in spreading the disease.

CLAYTONISM has increased the debt of Arkansas, in seven years, from $2,000,000 to $14,020,000, as follows:

Funded debt	$ 4,520,000
State aid bonds issued to railroads	6,000,000
Levee bonds outstanding	3,000,000
Ten year deficiency bonds	300,000
Floating indebtedness	1,200,000
Total	$14,020,000

The late struggle related not a little to about $6,000,000 more of railroad aid bonds that hung fire. The recent Legislature directed the officials not to issue them. Another year's rule of Clayton & Co. would have bankrupted the State.

The Fall Trade.

While some believe that the present general depression of trade will not be lifted during July and August, there is a remarkable unanimity of opinion among well-informed men in every part of the country, that indications strongly favor a good fall trade. The time for a mercantile, financial and industrial reaction is believed to be near at hand, when the capital and energies of the country will throw off an enforced lethargy to bring back the better days of happier times. Recuperative forces are at work, and cheerfulness and confidence begin to reappear.

This hopeful outlook is based on several well-known facts. Congress has lost the power to distarct business calculations by an opportune adjournment. Its compromise currency enactment will afford some relief, and even if it does not, it will work no mischief. And for that we ought to be grateful and take courage. But after all, what chiefly lends a roseate tinge to future prospects, is the magnificent crop of almost every staple. These good crops furnish a sure basis for the confidence that is to reanimate industry and inspire trade. No rust spoils the wheat harvest, the caterpillar has not touched our cotton staple, and from all over the land come up joyous predictions of bounteous harvests. There has been a staple revival is nearly a year, and the time postponed over-due. Circumstances all now when it beyond all anticipation, most every producer an abundant crop of remunerative production, commanding just certainly set in, ces, is assured, indications of the shrewdest observers unless the prog at fault. has been dull for the last six months and profits small, yet the number and importance of mercantile failures show no serious signs of disorder. It is a fact, as surprising as it is satisfying, that in that length of time, there have absolutely been fewer failures in number, certainly fewer in prominence, than for the same period in the average of years. And we have R. G. Dun & Co.'s Reference Book for July as an authority for the statement that the mercantile indebtedness of the country is not more than two-thirds of what it was at the corresponding time of last year. The fright that the debtor class received in the September crisis has had the effect, not only to reduce indebtedness, but to run down the stocks of all kinds of merchandize in all retail and consumptive quarters. The glorious harvests, reduced indebtedness, returning confidence and low stocks, all point to a marked reaction in trade, in the employment of labor, and in the general condition of all departments of business. A stiff upper lip, combined with prudence, economy and energy, will soon lift the country out of the famous depression that we inherited from the September panic.

THE State School Commissioner sent out blanks for the enumeration of the school population in March last, and required that the returns should be in his office by the 15th of June. The apportionment of the school fund is made upon the basis of school population, and the enumerative returns ought all to have been in the State Commissioner's office by the 1st of July, the day on which the law requires the apportionment to be made. At this date, thirty-one counties are behind, viz: Bartow, Berrien, Bryan, Bullock, Carroll, Charlton, Clayton, Coffee, Crawford, Dade, Dawson, Fayette, Floyd, Fulton, Glynn, Haralson, Irwin, Jefferson, Lowndes, Macon, McIntosh, Mitchell, Monroe, Morgan, Muscogee, Putnam, Terrell, White, Wilcox, Wilkes and Wilkinson. In a few cases, the State Commissioner, for special reasons, extended the time till the 1st of July, at the request of the county officers. It is to be hoped that all these returns will be received in a few days, and that the State Commissioner will not be delayed with the work of apportionment.

WE learn from the principal keeper of the Penitentiary, who has just returned from inspecting "Wing's Camp" of convicts on the Elberton Air-Line Railroad, that they are remarkably healthy—no sickness or death has occurred the past month; nor, indeed, causalties of any sort. The new stockade is of improved pattern, insuring superior comfort and security.

Eight miles of the road are completely graded, and seventeen will be ready for the iron by the first of October. The track will be first laid out from Toccoa City. President Matthews apprehends no difficulty in finishing the whole line of sixty-five miles. The work is comparatively light. There will not be a bridge on the road.

MARSHAL MANUEL DE LA CONCHA, whom the Carlists killed while leading an assault at Estella, was eighty years of age—the oldest of the generals of Spain, except Espartero. His first fighting was done against Napoleon, and the old soldier took an active and leading part in every subsequent war of his country. In 1847 he seized Oporto in the Portugese complications, and for his services was rewarded with the title of Marquis of Douro. His work on infantry and cavelry tactics is the accepted text book in all the military schools of Spain. The soldiers of Serrano are deprived by his death of a leader who had been uniformly successful, and in whom they had great confidence.

IN another column will be found an official report of the meeting of the State Executive Committee. We have only space this morning to call the attention of every reader to its patriotic recommendations. All that we would or could say is embraced in the capital address of Col. Hardeman. Let every Democrat carefully read its terse, vigorous and pointed sentences, and act fully up to their spirit. Harmony and victory will thus be assured.

GEN. FAGIN, the late United States Marshal for the Western District of Arkansas was a Confederate General, and in the Brooks rebellion, the commander-in-chief of the insurgent forces. It is charged that he received $10,000 from Clayton, Dorsey and others for his services in the latter capacity. Whether he got the money or not, he has bagged a fat office in recognition of his claims as the Brooks leader.

Death from Hydrophobia.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Roderick D. Entwistle, who was bitten by a dog about two weeks ago and taken to Bellevievere Hospital yesterday, with symptoms of hydrophobia, died at 9:36 o'clock this morning without application of drugs. The patient became insensible a short time before his death and in that state died. A post mortem examination will be held.

Meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee.

ATLANTA, GA., July 1, 1874.

Executive Committee met at 10 o'clock, Colonel Hardeman in the chair, and the following gentlemen were found to be present: Hon. Augustus Reese, Hon. James H. Hunter, Hon. H. Fielder, Col. Mark Blandford, Hon. L. N. Trammell, Col. J. L. Harris, Hon. J. C. Nichols, Hon. J. H. Christy, Hon. T. G. Lawson, Col. I. W. Avery, and Col. J. S. Boynton.

The chair stated that the principal object of the call of the meeting was to prevent nominations before the adjournment of Congress.

The chair announced the appointment to fill the vacancy in the Columbus Crawford District. He read a letter from Col. Crawford stating that he was unable to attend, and appointing Col. Blandford to act for him. There being no objection he took his seat.

It was stated by the chair that in several Congressional Districts there were Executive committee, and suggested that some action should be taken.

Col. Blandford moved the call of a State convention. The motion was discussed in a conversational manner, and finally decided in the negative.

Col. Trammell moved that the chairman be instructed to issue an address, embodying the views of the committee. The chairman stated that he had prepared a brief statement of the political situation, which he read.

Col. Reese moved that the statement be adopted as the action of the committee. Unanimously carried.

To the Democratic Party of Georgia:

You are soon to engage in another election for the control of your State. Your recent victories, should not make you over-confident of success. The opposition are thoroughly organized, for the conflict, are your forces ready for the field? Is there union and harmony in your ranks? Union is success, division is defeat. Select good men, able men to lead you and give them a united, cordial, hearty support. Be not divided by local issues, beware of jealousies arising from "claims overlooked," "stocked conventions" and personal prejudice. These are weapons furnished by a skillful enemy to break your ranks and defeat your cause. Look with distrust upon "peoples tickets," "citizens candidates," when brought forward in opposition to your regular nominees. They are subterfuges generally of disappointed aspirants, who are used by the opposition to defeat your organization. We cannot afford to destroy or weaken the Democratic party. It has rescued the State from Radical misrule; it has broken the alliance that existed between power and crime; it has checked the system of public plunder, which was driving our people to bankruptcy and ruin; it has restored the control of the government to the virtue and intelligence of the State. It has given Georgia a position in the Union beyond that of her unfortunate sisters of the South. Will you, relying upon your majority, grow listless and unconcerned? Remember bleeding South Carolina. Will you split into petty jealousies, and endanger your success? Think of down trodden Louisiana. Will you, by a thirst for position and place, distract and divide your forces? Look at plundered Florida and determine that in this contest, patriotism shall guide your actions, and love of State shall control your aspirations and your hopes. Your defeat is Radical rule, and Radical rule is oppression, civil rights bills, social degradation, plunder and bankruptcy. Your success gives assurance of constitutional government, enforcement of law and maintenance of right. The cause is worthy of your efforts; its success should be the day-star of your ambition. Individual responsibility is essential to a favorable termination of the struggle. Let the campaign be quick, sharp, decisive. Look well to your nominating conventions, see to it that none but men of integrity are offered to the people for their support—men who will spurn the rings; that would raid upon your Treasury, men who will look only to the interest and honor of the State, and with such men to bear your standard, you will command a victory. In the Federal elections there is GREAT NEED of action. Indifference before gave Georgia men in Congress who would have inflicted upon the white people of the State injuries and insults too revolting to contemplate. Justice to yourselves, justice to your children, justice to peace and good order, justice to humanity, justice to an ignorant race they would ruin, under the guise of friendship, all require of you action, decisive effort, unceasing labor to brand these men, with the seal of condemnation and remove them from a position, they have degraded. Men of Georgia, the issue is with you—it is big with consequences. Do your duty and all will be well with you and your noble old State. Respectfully submitted,

THOS. HARDEMAN, JR.,
Chairman Dem. Ex. Com.

Introduced by Col. Fielder:

Resolved, That the Democratic party of this State be earnestly requested to organize thoroughly in every county, so as to secure perfect harmony and united action, and the earnest co-operation of every voter in the party. That we urge upon every voter of the party to see to it that he be legally qualified to vote, and upon the managers of elections to see to it, that the law of the State prohibiting illegal voting is rigidly enforced.

Introduced by Colonel Avery and amended as follows:

Resolved, That the Democratic party in the Congressional districts that have no district executive committee be recommended to hold Congressional conventions where the last Congressional convention convened, and the said conventions be held in the Fourth on the 2d Wednesday in September; in the Fifth, on Wednesday, the 19th of August; and in the First, on the first Wednesday in September; and in the Eighth, if there be no acting committee, that the convention be held on the first Wednesday in September. Carried.

Introduced by Colonel Reese:

Resolved, That we suggest that the personal attendance by aspirants for Congress, upon primaries and county meetings, for the purpose of controlling their action, and upon Congressional District meetings, for the purpose of electioneering for the nomination, is disrespectful to the delegates, and unbecoming the dignity of the office sought. Carried.

Col. Jones resigned as committeeman on account of inability to attend.

Mr. Conant has been clerk in the warrant division of the Treasury for nine years, four of which as chief of division. He is from New Hampshire.

Reductions of employees of the public departments continue. A large number of males and females were dismissed today in the patent office.

To-day a clerk, who had been discharged, became temporarily insane, and divesting himself of all his clothing, seized a bayonet from the model room and rushed through the hall of the building, to the great consternation of the clerks. He was finally taken in charge by the police.

A. C. Cattell, who was appointed one of the District Commissioners, has finally declined. Blow and Denison accept.

It is expected that a Commissioner in Cattell's place, and a Postmaster General, vice Hale, will be appointed to-morrow.

There was a Cabinet meeting to-day, at which the subject of post-office appointments was discussed, but the President, as yet, has made no determination. At the meeting, Creswell stated upon leaving, that he would act until his successor was appointed, but that he intended to insist upon leaving the department as soon as possible. On returning to the Post-Office Department, in reply to a question whether he would reconsider his resignatiou, he said emphatically: "No; I was in earnest when I resigned, and would be glad to be relieved to-morrow."

John B. Packer, of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the House Committee on Post-Offices and Post Roads, is mentioned in connection with the office.

The monitors at Key Westt, excepting the Dictator, left that port yesterday for Pensacola, conveyed by the Brooklyn, Ossipee, Shawmut, Kansas and Pinta.

J. B. Fagin has been appointed Marshal for the Western District of Arkansas, and Joshua Bell for the Southern District of North Carolina.

A BRUTAL PASSION.

A Memphis Lawyer Shoots Another for a Supposed Insult.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

MEMPHIS, July 1.—At 10 o'clock this morning M. D. Welsh, a well known attorney and a candidate for Clerk of the Criminal Court, was shot by B. B. Barnes, also an attorney, and probably fatally wounded. They had a quarrel on Monday, when Welsh drew a pistol an Barnes. To-day mutual friends attempted to adjust the difficulty, and had a meeting in Dr. Jones' office. The parties to the quarrel were present. Barnes said he was ready to settle the affair, and it is supposed that Welsh misunderstood the remark, as he rose, drew a pistol and said he was also ready for a settlement. Whereupon Barnes fired, the ball striking Welsh on the left temple and coming out under the ear. Barnes at once surrendered to an officer.

The Stain of Blood.

[New York Commercial Advertiser.]

Four years ago occurred the Nathan murder in the family residence in Twenty-third street, and the special horror of that crime has so involved the very stones of that structure, within which it happened that there has been in all this time no purhcaser or lessee found with sufficiently callous sensibilities to buy, lease or occupy it, and it is consequently at present in process of demolition. This is a peculiar event in the annals of metropolitan crime, for there are very many dwellings in this city with a similar history, which have nevertheless been occupied ever since the commission of the acts which made them temporarily notorious. There is, for instance, the Cunningham residence in Bond street, the scene of the sanguinary Burdell murder, whose secret has been equally well known with that of Benjamin Nathan. There is the Rogers House, in Twelfth street, another illustration of the truth of the proverb that "murder will not out." There is the Grand Central Hotel, whose fatal staircase is daily trodden by hundreds of footsteps, as though it had never been the scene of the murder of James Fisk, Jr. These buildings have somehow outlived the terrible shadow of crime which once hung over them; and life, with all its earnest interests, proceeds as tranquilly therein as though no "skeleton in the closet" had for once made itself visible in their chambers and stalked publicly into the noon-day view of the world. But with the Nathan Mansion it has been widely different. There, as in the "Moated Grange"—

"All day within the dreamy house
The doors upon their hinges creak'd;
The blue fly sung in the pane; the mouse
Behind the moldering wainscot shriek'd."

And so, although we do not as they did in ancient times, strew the very sides of the structure with salt after its demolition, still it would seem that the sentiment of abhorrence which has clung to the Nathan mansion would not be satisfied by a less sacrifice than the destruction of the gloomy and sadly memorable place.

Concha's Death.

LONDON, July 1.—The Times' Paris correspondent telegraphs that among the stories current there is one to the effect that Marshal Concha was killed at the instigation of Serrano, because he was an Alphonzist. There was also another notion, that by the death of Concha, the influence of Germany is increased, which is unfavorable to restoration of dynasty attached to the Pope.

—The aims of the Brooklyn Ladies' Anti-Tight Lacing Society are broader than the name of the organization would seem to indicate. The ladies will go from head to foot in dress reform. High-heeled boots are to be banished for the simple reason that they create bunions on the feet. In the matter of diet mush is recommended in place of pound cake, and fish in place of meat. The by-laws of the society provide that no person shall be eligible to office in this society who wears corsets, or who does not wear her clothes suspended from her shoulders, and who does not live hygienically.

NEW [illegible] FOR A PARROT.

[illegible]ng the Forest Bird within the [illegible] Range of his Master's Rifle.

[From the Little Rock Gazette.]

The owner and trainer of this parrot is a boatman, who formerly plied between Little Rock and New Orleans, but who some years since gave up the business of boating, and has since led the life of a hunter, living in a snug cabin at the junction of Big Mammelle creek with the Arkansas river. This hunter hermit, whose name is Nathan Lask, brought with him from New Orleans, on making his last trip to that city, a fine young parrot, to which he soon became more attached than to any other thing on earth. Seated upon his shoulders, the parrot attended him in all his walks. To train and talk to it was almost his sole occupation.

With the careful training of so loving a master, added to its great natural talent for imitating all manner of cries of birds and animals, this bird had become a marvel of cunning, and a great wonder in its way. Taken into the hills bordering Big Mammelle Creek, and the signal being given at intervals, it utters the vry of the turkey so perfectly as to deceive the oldest and most astute gobbler that ever strutted. On being answered, the parrot proceeds to lure him to death in the most fiendishly coquettish manner imaginable. Seated on his master's shoulders, charily and coyly the parrot replies. Once he has fully attracted the attention of the vain and anxious gobbler, often allowing him to call in fretful tone twice or thrice before deigning to answer, he then in a few low and tender notes lures the proud bird of the forest within range of the hunter's deadly rifle. Seeing the turkey struggling in the agonies of death fills the parrot with the most fiendish delight, to which he gives utterance in a succession of blood-chilling "ha, ha's," in all manner of diabolical tones and keys. Should the hunter miss his aim, however, the parrot ruffles his feathers, croaks and scolds, pulls his master's hair, and long refuses to be pacified.

Duck hunting in Forche and Meto bayous is, however, the parrot's chief delight. Seated in the bow of his master's boat, snugly ensconced in a patch of tall bullrushes, the parrot bursts forth into such a "quack, quacking," and general duck gabble, that there seems to be in the vicinity a whole flock of these birds, all enjoying themselves immensely. Thus are many passing flocks of ducks lured within range of the gun of the hunter. Geese are in the same way called up by this wonderful parrot; also many other wild fowl, and even deer, as the bird imitates the plaintive bleating of a fawn or doe to a nicety. No money would buy the bird, and Nat. Lask, seen strolling through the woods, gun in hand, and with his almost inseparable companion seated on his left shoulder, seems a secon Robinson Crusoe.

Although so perfect in his imitations of all manner of birds and animals, the parrot is not a great talker; indeed, his vocabulary is limited to a few words and one or two short phrases. These sometimes sing out, "Nat, you lubber," and when Dan Lanagan, (a brother boatman of Nat's, living at the head at Bayou Forche, and almost his only visitor), in his dugout is seen paddling in toward the mouth of Big Mammelle Creek, the parrot—whose name we forgot to say is Bobby—will shout, "Lanago, ahoy! Lanagan, a—a—hoy!"

The moment Bobby sees his master take down his gun, he is in a great flutter. He cocks his head on one side, his great red eyes sparkling with delight, and in a low, inquiring tone, says: "Turkey? turkey?" "No, Bobby," Nat will perhaps say, "not turkey to-day." Bobby cocks his head the other way and softly says, "Quack, quack, quack!" "Yes, Bobby," says Nat," "quack, "quack!" Bobby then bursts into a loud "Ha, ha, ha!" and cries, "Nat, you lubber, quack, quack, quack!" Then he ha ha's till the whole cabin rings again.

STARTING A NEWSPAPER.

A Little Experience with a Hungry Evening Daily.

[The Burdett in the Burlington Hawkeye.]

The Peoria (Ill.) Review is said to be sold at Sheriff's sale this morning to satisfy a mortgage. We are under obligations to a Peoria friend for promptly advising us of this opportunity to regain an interest in that excellent paper, cheap, but we don't want any. We have loved the Review; so did the gods, hence it has died young, less than a year and a half old. It marked an era in our journalistic career which we love to ponder over, with tears. It was the one daily paper we helped to start. It precious soon got the start of everybody connected with it. We had that little twilight twinkler for nearly a quarter of a year. Then it had us the rest of the time. The insatiable maw that pretty deceitful little sheet, in its nobby, metropolitan dress of minion and nonpariel, had for coupons, the wild, ungoverned appetite it had for shekels, the excellent voice it had, which it retained to the last, for louis d'ors; the avidity with which it reached out for base bullion, and the equal avidity with which it didn't get any! Such a fearful old inflationist it was on the Dr. side; such a terrible contractionist it was on the Cr. side. We hope it will sell well. We hope the mortgage will be satisfied. If it is it will be the first thing the Review ever satisfied. We hope some good man will buy it and run it successfully, though we doubt if can be made to do better than it did under Mr. Coffinberry's excellent and careful management. But with all due regard and tender feeling for the journal of our earliest love and highest aspirations, we do not wish any more of the fruit, if you please. Life is too short to throw away on such a hollow vanity as a Peoria evening daily. We would much rather not kind of try to have anything to do with it hardly any at all. If at any time we desire to renew the fierce excitement of those sweet days, we can wait till harvest and go up in the country and crawl into a threshing machine, or in a city where so many saw mills ply the busy buzz saw as in Burlington, we can find pastime of a less exciting and arduous character than running the Review, it is true, but still sufficiently exhilarating for a man of a rather phlegmatic temperament. We do not wish to run any evening dailies on our own hook. That is, not just at present. We may after awhile, along some time after the millennium, may be, but we are too young for such onerous duties now. And then, since we came to Burlington we have become so dreadfully addicted to telling the truth that we are about ruined for Peoria newspaper work, anyhow.

—Of the six negroes in Congress, says the New York World, only one excited any notice during the session just closed—Elliott, of South Carolina—and he only because of a single speech, which was supposed to be remarkable because it did emanate from a negro. That Elliott recited a speech in the House is true. Whether it was the production of his own brain is quite another matter. Senator Norwood, of Georgia, in his speech on the civil rights bill, asserted that the speech delivered by Elliott was written for him, and that the name of the author of it was quite current at the capitol. He challenged denial, but every Senator sat mute.

A Forgery.

CINCINNATI, July 1.—A special dispatch states that E. J. Thorn and Francis Tiernan, of Springfield, Ohio, were yesterday held to bail at Napanata on a charge of forgery. It is said that they forged a paper to the amount of $100,000 which had been negotiated among the farmers by these men. Their plan was to get some farmers who could not read to sign what purported to be a contract for the agency of a patent plow between the farmers and a certain R. R. Fenner & Co., but which was really a personal note.

Hydrophobia.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The man who was bitten by a dog is at Belview Hospital suffering from what physicians call lysaphobia. That is the condition of the patient who has persuaded himself that he has hydrophobia, and who, by constantly brooding over it, has at last brought upon himself some of the symptoms of the disease.

A gentleman named Ames died yesterday A. M. at East Orange, New Jersey, from alleged hydrophobia. His family do not know that he was ever bitten by a dog.

THOSE NEW YORK EDITORS.

How Atlanta looks through Northern Spectacles—Its Rapid Growth and Vigorous Appearance—The Churches and Buildings of the City—Kind Words for The Constitution—Gov. Smith and Ben. Hill.

We print this morning some extracts from the papers that have come to hand, which were represented in the late excursion of the New York editors.

We have not space to quote from all, but the tenor of their comments is well expressed in the quotations to be found below. All contain complimentary words about the Gate City and the Empire State of the South:

[Mohawk Valley Democrat.]

Georgia as a State, is thrifty, and needs no protection; they can take care of themselves. The farming looks like northern workmanship. We observed the difference at once in riding along, when we got upon the Georgia soil. After supper we took cars again for Atlanta. This was a delightful moonlight ride, and through a beautiful country; arrived at Atlanta about midnight, found the committee awaiting our arrival; was cordially greeted, and every wish and want provided for, and we accepted the situation and closed our accounts by sleep. In the morning everything was beautiful; the hills and the valley smiled, the ladies and gents ditto, everybody seemed happy, and we have no doubt it was so, carriages were provided and the main points of interest were visited. Atlanta city shows thrift upon every turn and we should think she had wiped out the terror caused by our slight difference. We had an intellectual feast that day at dinner, in a speech from the celebrated B. H. Hill, the great Southern orator, and we got a promise from a friend to send it to us when published, and we shall re-publish it with great pleasure. Atlanta wants no praise, she can praise herself.

[Auburn Independent.]

After relating an interview with Governor Bard the writer says:

Next, Governor Smith was sought in the executive office. Very much of the stature of Bard he is, and submitted gracefully to a half hour interview, in which he civil rights bill was discussed. The Governor is a Democrat and very, naturally, politically, socially and every other way opposed to its provisions. (Right here I would remark that every editor in our party cannot well help taking the same view after our trip South.) The notables of this city would not all be interviewed did we omit to call on A. H. Stephen's life long antagonist—Ben. H. Hill. Hill was represented to us as the ablest man in the South. Reaching to a law office, he bade us walk in, and another half hour was spent in conversation. He was a Whig so long as there was a Whig party. When it died, Hill did not know where to lay his head, and despe the fact he was a true Southern man with the extreme views of most ar public men, he could never rise higher than the Assembly before the war, owing to the political complexion of his District. After war commenced he became a Confederate Senator, remarking with considerable emphasis upon the fact that he opposed the war in the outset, always conservative in his views, yet until lately he was disfranchised. The ignorant negro who can now owned could vote, but he, not a all. He did not utter this complainingly, but to put the civil rights bill upon the South as goading her to bitterness. This gentleman made a speech at the banquet which will be found in another column.

At noon carriages were provided to view the city, and few omitted the opportunity to see the town that General Sherman made memorable upon his march to the sea. Nearly every place of business was torn to the ground, and many private residens contiguous underwent the same destuction. Before the war citizens claimed only 10,000 inhabitants; now 40,000. That theire resulted in a benefit to the city there is no doubt, though many suffered, and severely too. To-day it wears more the aspe of a Northern city in business, in block and public buildings than any since we le the Queen City of the West. Though bated in the Northwestern part of the State, its railroad center, hotel facilities and waveniences generally, so much in excess of Milledgeville, the former and geographically centred capitol, the citizens of the tate appear content to let this remain the st of State government.

[Waverly Advocate.]

Arrived at Atlanta a little after midght, finding excellent quarters at the magnicent Kimball House. We may as well sanow that all houses in the South, public an private, are constructed with an eye shot weather, while we ourselves up to eep out the cold. The cheaper dwellings a set up from the ground on piles or brick ars to afford free circulation of air under em—no cellars or basements are needed or ed. The hotels generally have a large sare space in the center, which, if roun we would call a rotunda, extending throu the several stories of the building, with rridors around it. A fountain and tical plants usually grace the center. The arrangements make the most pleasand agreeable quarters during the hot seon. The Kimball House at Atlanta exce all other hotels thus far visited in the buty and magnificence of these appointment

Atlanta is among the mandtus, and as an important key to military operans during the late war. It is called the "ate City" by reason of its important geogrhical situation. Before the war its popuion was ten thousand; when Sherman left to march to the sea there was but little a the city remaining; now they claim a pulation of forty thousand—probably thithousand is about the correct figure. i is an important railroad center, and is ty largely to manufacturing of all kds, es pecially in the line of iron. It afford great aid to the Confederates during e war through these manufactures. Yeat is largely grown in the vicinity, and bring is an important industry in Atlanta. To Mr. Hayden, brother of Sydney Hayd of this place, we are indebted for sight-seeg while sojourning here. He kindly tookae Waverly editors into his carriage and rove to the important and interesting poi. The Stone Mountain seventeen miles to the southeast, and Kennesaw Mounti twenty miles to the northwest, places mahistoric during the war. The old en works around the city are still visible, as some of them in good preservation. The y is full of enterprise; business is brisk, a life and animation characterize the pce. We were publicly entertained, hospita poured upon us in unabated streams, i everything else done to make our stleasant. To the proprietors of the CONSTITION we are indebted for many kindnes and attentions. If God helps thoso help themselves, then Atlanta is a hip favored city. Here Northern men can f a congonial home—in fact, very manyve found such homes there already. Were delighted with Atlanta.

[Ballston Journal.]

After viewing Rome we agaresume our journey, and 12 o'clock, midnt, finds us at Atlanta, a large and flourish city now, where only a few houses remai after the war.

We were taken to the Kimbolouse, an elegant hotel, where we w assigned rooms, and soon forgot all ouweariness in sleep.

Tuesday we were taken abo the city in carriages, and noted the placf interest, among them the headquartof General Sherman during the war. Wilso visited the capitol and other public ildings. A number visited the office THE DAILY CONSTITUTION, where we weordially received, and shown through the building. Starting from the press room the lower floor, we wound our way to fifth floor, and from there to the roof oe building, where the enchanting panoras delightful. The city beneath us lod charming, bounded in one direction the double spurs of the Kennesaw Mains and in another by Stone Moun. Atlanta seemed more like a Northerity than any other which we visited in otourney. Its people are wide-awake, genus and sociable, holding ill-will towardone, and proud to be classed as Americartizens of one common country.

At three o'clock a bant was given us at the Kimball House which the greatest harmony and goodill abounded.

Our visit to Atlanta was of the most pleasing of our trip.

[Wyoming County Iocrat.]

The Southern city of Ata is favored with one of the most conte newspaper establishments in the coun We refer to THE CONSTITUTION. Theimball House where the party stopped, he of the most beautiful and perfect hotelouth. We had bountiful treatment with the walls and a royal banquet at which H Benjamin Hill spoke. No city South is easing in population more rapidly; none a more thriving appearance. It has r like a Phœnix and contains 40,000 peoplamst 10,000 in 1865.

[Tioga County ord.]

We reached Atlanta at midnight. A number of citizens were sand to meet us and to escort us to the HKimball House, one of the largest and fi in the United States, the Arcade of wi was brilliantly illuminated, the fountaiards and flowers showing off to great adtage. After introductions and cordial hand shakings all sought their rooms for rest. So determined were the people of the Gate City to equal, at least, the hospitableife of Alabama, very many were at the hotel early the next morning, the 26th, with carriages to take us to visit places of interest. Among these gentlemen we do not forget Mr. N. P. T. Finch, of THE CONSTITUTION, Mr. D. A. Spencer, Deputy United States Marshal, (Lon Spencer as he is known by many young people in Owego,) Mr. J. B. Scarratt, the Southern Manager of the Howe Sewing Machine. The former of these gentlemen invited us to an inspection of the office of THE CONSTITUTION, and a most complete printing establishment did we find it to be. From the lofty roof of the building a grand view of the city and surrounding hills and fortifications for a distance of thirty miles was obtained. Here we saw a beautiful sunset, also, the great full-orbed planet dropping away apparently by inches at a level with our feet. The reception dinner was given at 3 o'clock at the H. L. Kimball House, at which Col. G. W. Adair in behalf of Mayor Spencer, who was unavoidably absent, made an address of welcome.

A very interesting feature of the occasion was a speech of Ben. Hill, one of the ablest men of the South, formerly a Senator in the Confederate Congress. He responded to the toast: "Georgia—The Empire State of the South." It was unanimously requested that Mr. Hill write out his speech for publication in the hundred papers there represented, regardless of politics. We expect to publish the same as soon as received, as it reflects to a great extent the true condition of the South.

At the conclusion of the banquet, those who had not previously driven around the city, were taken to the State fair grounds, which are being put in readiness for the greatest State fair ever held in the South, the site of the Custom House in course of erection, the high schools, and to many of the old and formidable forts and cartworks, of General Sherman so numerous in and about the city. General Sherman here commenced his great march to the sea. He burned this city, it will be remembered, at the time, and though there are marks of the ruins yet to be seen, the place is rebuilt and contains 30,000 inhabitants. It contains many Northern people and the style of buildings and the enterprise were more like the North than at any place visited. The city sets upon high ground, and is remarkably cool and healthy.

[Brockport Republic.]

On the arrival of the excursionists at Atlanta, they were met at the depot by the reception committee and escorted to the Kimball House, where they were cordially welcomed in brief remarks by Colonel Clarke. The Kimball House is one of the best hotels in the South, and has a landlord especially to his business.

At 10 o'clock the party was started for a carriage ride about the city, visiting the State House, Governor Smith, and the many general objects of interest. The city is pleasantly situated, and having been partly burned during the war and rebuilt since, presents a brighter and more modern appearance than many Southern cities. It is unquestionably a thrifty place. It was a prominent point during the war, and fills an important place in the pages of military history. Sherman's march from "Atlanta to the sea" will not soon be forgotten.

In the afternoon a superb banquet was given at the Kimball House. A welcome address was delivered by Col. G. W. Adair. Numerous addresses were made responsive to toasts by citizens and excursionists. Among the speakers were Hon. B. H. Hill.

Later in the day a ride was taken about the city and stoppages made at the medicinal springs, the barracks, etc. At the barracks a military drill was witnessed. The city contains many elegant residences and several spacious and beautiful churches. The visit and the entertainment were among the most agreeable that had been participated in.

MERCER.

Colonel Goode's Literary Address—The Alumni Banquet—The Junior Exhibition.

We synopsize from the Macon Telegraph the report of the commencement exercises of Tuesday, our regular letter from some cause having failed to come to hand.

The literary address was delivered by Colonel Charles T. Goode, of Americus. His theme was

THE ELEMENTS OF TRUE MANHOOD.

The essential points enumerated by him as entering into the character of a true man were: love of truth, independence of thought, courage, high moral principles, liberality, honesty, reverence for the Bible, love of country and chivalrous respect for the gentler sex. Of these elements he constructed a superb type of manly character, and held it up as an exemplar for Southern youth.

At times the orator made flights which charmed his hearers with their grandeur. It was as the strong-winged eagle, soaring up and up and up the lofty mountain side, attaining a purer atmosphere. The imaginary cycloid is described by the stately sweep of her tireless wings; higher and higher, up and up, until dying away in the light of the sunshine, eyries herself among the crags and rocks at the summit. At times his hearers were almost dazzled with the splendor of the light by which he surrounded himself, and the admiration was not lessened when he plucked the tender flower by the wayside and exhibited its modest beauty. He touched no point which his eloquence did not surround with the weird enchantment of beauty. He spoke a charmed language, every word of which was ablaze with a fervent meaning. His symbols were as beautiful as the creations of the truest art—his logic as pure and firm as truth—his admonitions the very essence of wisdom. The address was scholarly without being pedantic; eloquent without the least that ruins so many of the world's oratory; chaste, without being constrained; sentimental, without being morbid: flowery, without being florid, and poetic without being too etherial. The people were taken completely by surprise, and the surprise became greater and greater as the speaker advanced with the steady and steady strides of a giant, and he closed amid a storm of applause, which was continued for some considerable time.

THE ALUMNI BANQUET.

The annual Alumni banquet came off at the Isaacs House. It was a cheerful party which assembled there, and there was a general relaxing of the dignities and proprieties of college restraint, and everybody met upon the common level of good humor. When all had feasted to the utmost fullness, the feast seemed hardly to have been touched, and the beauty of the tables was scarcely marred.

After the feast came segars and speeches. Wine was very properly banished as a despoiler of good cheer. Rev. David E. Butler presided over both substantial feast and the "feast of reason and flow of soul." He held the reins taut and trotted out his speakers one by one, as they were needed, and no man was permitted to make an excuse, or shirk the duty to which he was called. There were some good speeches, some wit and a good deal of fun. The following were the speakers:

Rev. E. W. Warren, for the Board of Trustees of Mercer; Rev. A. J. Battle, D. D., for the faculty; Rev. Jno. W. Burke, for the City Council of Macon; Capt. A. O. Bacon spoke for the legal profession. There being no doctor present, the President called for "Dixie," by the band, instead. Mr. Cooper spoke for the pedagogues; Mr. R. Weston Patterson for the class of 1874; Mr. Wm. Ira Smith for the class of 1873; Mr. Salter for the class of 1872; Mr. Geo. S. Obear, jr., for the class of 1871; Rev. A. J. Beck for the class of 1870; Mr. John H. James for Atlanta; Prof. W. D. Williams for the Wesleyan Female College and women generally; Col. E. Y. Clarke for THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION; Col. H. H. Jones for the press of Macon. The closing speech, a brief one, was made by Col. C. T. Goode.

The banquet ended about five o'clock, leaving all as cheerful as they were when it begun.

THE JUNIOR EXHIBITION.

This came off at Ralston's Hall. The first speaker was Mr. Benjamin H. Ivey, of Marion county, who acquitted himself well. His subject was "Onward and Upward."

Mr. Henry C. Peeples, of Atlanta, selected "Demosthenes and Paul" for his subject, and had a finely written speech, which was cleverly delivered.

"The Great Stage," by Mr. Linton A. Deane, of Floyd county, was a very pretty speech, and was delivered in a graceful manner.

Mr. McDougald Nisbet, of Alabama, had a capital speech on "The Future of the South." His, in every respect, was one of the best of the evening.

Mr. Seaborn R. Stevens, of Sumter county, had for his subject "Mutual Independence of Man and Nature."

Mr. Mirabeau L. Carswell, of Richmond county, spoke on "Purpose in Life," and Mr. Lambert W. Jones, of South Carolina, on "Athletics."

Mr. John F. Daniel, of Alabama, had a rather lively address upon "The New Science," which was well delivered.

The most taking speech of the evening was that of Mr. Elijah A. Keese, of Randolph county, on "The New Era." The speech was a spicy one.

"The Southern Statesman" was the subject of the speech of Mr. Aurelian F. Cooledge, of Gwinnett county. It was delivered in a manly and emphatic style, which did the young speaker credit.

Mr. Edward H. Cabaniss, of Monroe county, had "Lofty Ideals" for his theme. He is a very graceful speaker, and enunciates clearly and distinctly.

Book Notices.

HOW MARGARY HELPED. A prize story selected by the Ladies' Commission on Sunday-school Books. By M. Carroll, 12 mo., pp. 315. Boston: Lee & Shepard. Atlanta: Phillips & Crew.

The book starts off without any cumbersome preface, and it is sensible and interesting to the very last line. "She did what she could." It is a story of a sensible girl's life; how she helped those about her and thus helped herself, and there is none of the weak goodness that formerly characterized Sunday-school literature. We hope the Ladies' Commission will continue their work of selecting books for Sunday-schools, if this handsome, readable, healthy and instructive volume is a specimen of their skill and judgment.

VILLETA LINDEN, OR THE ARTIST'S BRIDE. By Emerson Bennett, author of "The Outlaw's Daughter," "Fair Rebel," etc. 12 mo., pp. 414. Philadelphia: Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger. Atlanta: Phillips & Crew.

Mr. Bennett has produced no less than forty different works, some of which have had an immense sale. Of his "Prairie Flower" over two hundred thousand copies have been sold, and there is still a steady demand for it, and for the other books of the popular novelist. This demand has led to the republication of his works in an uniform and complete edition, and the volume before us is one of the new series. It has long been a favorite, and is too widely known to need comment. Mr. Bennett's wonderful powers as a story writer are also well known. He facinates the reader from the outset. "Villeta Linden" winds up with two brilliant weddings, and on the principle that all's well that ends well, this book must be firstrate.

HEAVEN'S ARTILLERY.—During the severe thunder storm that swept over Atlanta Tuesday afternoon several horses and other objects were struck by the subtle fluid, and a number of ladies narrowly escaped death. Mrs. Mary Richards was sitting in her house at the corners of Marietta, Hunnicutt and Plum streets, when she was prostrated senseless to the floor by an electric bolt, which first struck the chimney, down which it ran, and, after smiting Mrs. Richards, burst out the side of the house, across Plum street, into the residence of Mr. Terry, where it severely shocked Mrs. Terry and two other ladies, when it skipped to the adjoining residence of Mrs. Roberts and gave that lady a free touch of electricity. None of the ladies were severely injured, except ing Mrs. Richards, who, for a while, was extremely low; but, after the application of restoratives, gave tokens of life and, with careful nursing, will recover, although very much injured. None of the houses attacked were provided with lightning rods, and Ladd says had they been so provided, the lightning would not have touched them.

THE success of the Southern Branch of the National Surgical Institute, since its location here, has been truly wonderful. Patients have flocked in by the score and sent home cured and rejoicing. With all the modern conveniences and the latest and best medical appliances, with skilled and successful physicians, they deserve their enlarged success. It is not then a source of wonder that the unscrupulous will use their good name to obtain money from the public. We are assured that they have no agents in the field, and will pay a reward for the capture of all parties representing themselves as their agents.

MRS. R. C. KETCHUM'S select school, on Whitehall street, for little folks—apparently from six to twelve years old—closed yesterday for a vacation, with very charming exercises. Considering the tender age of the pupils, it was a "commencement" of "exceeding great and precious promises," worthy the theme of the Rev. Mr. Ketchum himself.

THE next session of the University of Nashville, Tenn., opens on the 7th of September. The studies are elective and the discipline military. The chancellor is Gen. E. Kirby Smith. The university is one of the best institutions in the country, and no educator stands higher than its distinguished chancellor.

HARRINGTON SENTENCED FOR TEN YEARS.

McCue Gets $600 and Costs, or 12 Months in the Chain Gang.

During the session of the Superior Court yesterday, Dr. C. C. Harrington, who was found guilty of the robbery of Mr. R. P. Spencer, was brought in to receive the sentence of the law. Before pronouncing it his Honor, Judge Hopkins, spoke at some length of the offense of which the prisoner stood convicted, and its consequences upon society.

Judge W. F. Wright, one of the prisoner's council, made an earnest appeal for leniency.

Harrington showed considerable feeling while the terrible sentence was being pronounced as follows:

Whereupon it is ordered by the Court that the defendant, C. C. Harrington, be taken from the bar of this Court to the jail of Fulton county, and be there safely kept until he is delivered to a guard to be sent for him from the Georgia penitentiary, and that he be carried by said guard to said penitentiary and be confined at hard labor in said penitentiary, or such other place as the Governor of the State may direct for the full term of ten years, to be computed from the date of his delivery. July 1, 1874.

By the Court. J. T. GLENN,
Solicitor General.

Judge Wright immediately gave notice of his intention to move for a new trial, and upon his motion the Court ordered the sentence to be suspended until Saturday next, the 4th of this month, to allow this motion to be filed.

MCCUE'S CASE.

The case against Mickey McCue, charged with being accessory in this same offence, was called. After the conviction of Harrington, McCue evidently became sadly demoralized, and determined to compromise, if possible. He accordingly announced his willingness to waive formal arraignment and plead guilty to a simple assault if the State would permit him. This was agreed to by the Solicitor General, and the plea filed. Judge Hopkins then sentenced McCue as follows:

"Whereupon it is ordered by the Court that the defendant, Mickey McCue, pay a fine of $600 and costs, and remain in custody until paid, and in default of paying said fine in twenty days it is ordered by the Court that the said McCue work twelve months on the public works of Fulton county."

Both of the prisoners were taken back to jail, where they now are.

Concert and Exhibition.

The young ladies of Prof. J. H. Logan's High School and Miss Howard's music class gave an exhibition last evening at DeGive's Opera House. The exercises were witnessed by a very large audience. The interior of the spacious theatre was so well packed with the friends and patrons of the school, that it was very difficult to procure a seat at all. Our space does not permit of an extended notice of these exercises separately. All of the young ladies did well, and exceedingly well. The music by Miss Howard's class was much better than is usually rendered by young ladies of similar ages, and reflects much credit upon the diligence and capability of the instructress. The compositions were very fine, evincing unusual thought and careful training.

All of the young ladies received the hearty approbation of the audience, and many of them were rewarded with handsome boquets.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES.

During the exercises the stage was occupied by Messrs. B. J. Wilson, S. B. Hoyt and General W. S. Walker. When they had concluded, Professor Logan stated that Colonel E. Y. Clarke, of THE CONSTITUTION, had been expected to deliver the prizes, but was unavoidably called to Macon. General Walker had consented to fill his place. The General made a few introductory remarks, paying a handsome tribute to woman's character and influence, and delivered the prizes as follows:

A handsome book to Miss Lula Holbrook for proficiency in music.

A writing desk to Miss Wilson for general deportment and punctuality.

A beautiful gold pen to Miss Carrie Hoyt for good deportment and rapid progress.

THE CANTATA.

The evening's entertainment was very appropriately closed by a cantata in two parts, "The Queen of May," sang by all the scholars. The music of this operetta was beautiful. The children had been carefully instructed, and rendered the several parts admirably. They were assisted by Miss Maggie O'Connor, who possesses a voice of unusual cultivation and power. The piece was warmly applauded.

A SURPRISH AND PRESENTATION.

After the audience had dispersed, a pleasant little occurrence took place behind the carriage house at DeGive's Opera House. Miss Carrie Huard, in behalf of the young ladies, with an elegant pair of silver napkin rings. The presentation was made through esteem for the Major, and in appreciation of his services in assisting in arranging and preparing the Cantata. Major Morgan was completely surprised, but very much pleased with this kind of a surprise. No extensive speeches were made.

Fulton Superior Court.

Court met at 8 o'clock, Hon John L. Hopkins, judge presiding.

State vs. Reuben Jordan. Indictment, for stabbing. Ordered that this case be transferred to the City Court for trial.

Most of yesterday's session was spent in the trial of Julia Thompson upon an indictment charging her with keeping and maintaining a house of ill fame. The Solicitor General for the State. Messrs. Gartrell & Stephens and Judge W. F. Wright, for the defence.

The case was hotly contested, and volumінary evidence introduced on both sides. The jury retired with an able charge from the Court. Court then adjourned. About five 6 o'clock the jury returned a sealed verdict, which will be opened to-day.

The State vs. Joe Dickson and Dan Harper (negroes). Murder. Continued. Gartrell & Stephens, J. B. Goodwin, for Dixon. John R. Kendrick, for Harper.

ELSAS, MAY & CO. are building an addition to their factory on the corner of Pryor and Mitchell street. The additional structure will be of brick one hundred feet square and three stories high. Vice-President Wyly presided on 'change yesterday. The change of the hall to the skating rink was discussed and met with favor. It will probably come up for definite action to-day. Messrs. H. A. A SUMMER'S GHOST.

BY LOUISE CHANDLER MOULTON.

In that old summer can you still recall
The pomp with which the strong sun rose and set,
How bright the moon shone on the shining fields,
What wild, sweet blossoms with the dew were wet?

Can you still hear the merry robins sing,
And see the brave red lilies gleam and glow,
The waiting wealth of bloom, the reckless bees
That woo their wild-flower loves, and sting, and go?

Canst hear the waves that round the happy shore
Broke in soft joy, and told delusive tales—
We go, but we return; love comes and goes;
And eyes that watch see homeward-faring sails.

"'Twas thus in other seasons?" Ah, may be!
But I forget them, and remembered this—
A brief, warm season, and a fond, brief love,
And cold, white winter after bloom and bliss.
